Contact Local Utilities—You can reach out to local utility companies or government agencies to inquire about the location of charging stations. They may have information about public charging infrastructure in the York, Maine area.

Visit EV Charging Websites—Some websites, like the U.S. Department of Energy's Alternative Fuels Data Center (AFDC), provide maps and lists of charging stations across the United States. You can visit the AFDC website (afdc.energy.gov) or similar resources to search for charging stations in your area.

Ask EV Enthusiasts Groups—Local electric vehicle (EV) enthusiast groups or forums may have recommendations for charging stations in your area. You can find these groups on social media or EV-related websites.

Cape Neddick Light / Nubble Light 1879

Officially the Cape Neddick Light Station, it was built in 1879 for $15,000 on a nub of land---thus the Nubble. It was first lighted on July 1, 1879. The current beacon is a 1000 watt bulb behind red plaxiglass. It flashes 3 seconds on and three seconds off. It is visible for 13 miles. The automated foghorn is activated by the atmosphere and blasts every 10 seconds.

The tower is 41 feet high and 88 feet above sea level. It is built of brick that has been covered by metal sheathing. Thirty-three circular iron steps go up to the lantern room. The first innkeeper was Nathanial Otterson, and the last was Russell Ahlgren. The light was automated in 1987.

Living quarters consisted of 3 bedrooms, kitchen, dining, living, and pantry. The smaller red house was once used for fuel and the little white house was a workshop. The light is maintained by the Coast Guard, but the Town of York owns the property and buildings. It is maintained by the York Parks and Recreation Committee. FMI: (207) 363-1040. There is no public access allowed on the island.

133' gray granite conical tower, located offshore nine miles east of York Beach.

After a particularly grizzly episode of cannibalism on this desolate rock pile, locals left food and clothing here for use of any shipwreck victim; hence the somewhat ironic name, "Boon." This tiny island, about nine miles off the coast of York, has been continually submerged by storms and the light has been rebuilt several times. Today its brick cylinder rises 137 feet, making it Maine's tallest lighthouse. It is not

seen from Sohier Park, off Nubble Road, in York Beach and as part of local lighthouse cruises. Boon Island Lighthouse was built in 1811.

Whaleback Light 1831/1872

75' gray granite conical tower on a reef.

This light guards the entrance to Portsmouth Harbor, and looks as its name suggests: like a lighthouse perched atop the back of a whale, or some other sea creature. It is closed to the public but can be seen from Fort Foster in Kittery and from the water. Whaleback Light was built in 1831.

Eliot's charm extends beyond its scenic riverside byways. The area once known as Kittery's Upper Parish became the Town of Eliot in 1810. Farming, brickmaking, and ship building employed many residents in the 1800's. The world's fastest clipper ship, the Nightengale, was built at Hanscom Shipyard in Eliot in the 1850's. The Town's rich history is seen at attractions like the #8 Schoolhouse Museum, William Fogg Library, Green Acre Baha'i Learning Center, and the Eliot Boat Basin.

Home of the oldest power mill in America, this community has had a diverse economy that included textile and shoe manufacturing, farming, timber and fishing. During its heyday, a boat called a gundalow was built to haul goods from the smaller inland rivers to the faster-moving Piscataqua River. Historic homes including the Sarah Orne Jewett House and the Old Hamilton House are open to visitors in the summer as is the Counting House, home of the Old Berwick Historical Society. Vaughan Woods

State Park and the Salmon Falls River are popular recreation areas for hiking, biking and picnicking. The quaint downtown has a variety of year-round fine dining and delightful shops. Outdoor concerts on the town hall lawn are a common summer occurrence. South Berwick and Eliot share a public school district. US Route 236 is the main artery connecting Kittery, Eliot and South Berwick.

Powderhouse Hill is a community ski area owned by the Town of South Berwick, Maine and operated by the all-volunteer Powderhouse Ski Club. It consists of one rope tow, and three trails: 2 intermediate and 1 beginner. Powderhouse Hill has no snowmaking thus its operation relies completely on natural snow.
